Dr. Partha S Ghosh

Founder, PG Academy of Leadership

Dr. Partha S. Ghosh is a distinguished global figure, recognized for his innovative contributions to business and economic models. As the founder of the Partha Ghosh Academy of Leadership at IIT Kharagpur, he has shaped the minds of future leaders. His expertise as a policy advisor and strategist has been sought by corporations and governments across the globe. With a storied career that includes a partnership at McKinsey & Company and the founding of his own advisory firm, Dr. Ghosh has influenced a wide array of sectors, from automotive to biotech and energy. His vision for the future is one of transformative change, anticipating a seismic shift in the world economy over the next quarter-century. A "creative problem solver" and "visionary leader," Dr. Ghosh is also a dedicated educator, teaching at prestigious institutions like Tufts Gordon Institute and MIT. His accolades include the Distinguished IIT Alumni medal, recognizing his problem-solving prowess and public service. Holding two advanced degrees from MIT and an illustrious undergraduate tenure at IIT, Dr. Ghosh's academic excellence is matched by his commitment to public service, as evidenced by his role in founding The Boston Pledge. His multifaceted interests span education, philosophy, science, and public service, earning him the moniker of a "modern-day renaissance man."
